College experience would be more thrilling as young and energetic students are permitted to explore their interests through the minor degrees such as honours courses. This allows them to pursue their career as early as possible. They will also develop the confidence in their acquired skill sets based on the multiple entry and exit recommendation.

The massive tech revolution will bring major advances and policy changes. These multifarious changes are set to recentre the college experience for the newer set of learners, with a room for more equity and inclusion at each step. Collectively, these changes will create a more articulate, innovative, skilful, and tech-savvy generation of learners and leaders.
